ber, and stamped. The blank is presented to the Peabody Depot, corner of Magazine and Lafayette streets, and supplies are issued.

The depot of the Peabody Subsistence Association, at the corner of Magazine and Lafayette streets, opened on Saturday morning with a good supply of flour, meat, sugar, tea, and corn-meal. As early as half-past 8 o'clock applicants made their appearance, and their wants were supplied.

The Telegraphers' Relief Association here sent $100 to the six telegraphers at Grenada.

AFTERNON REPORT.

From noon to 6 p.m. twenty-seven deaths were reported.

E. W. Barnes, messenger of the Western Union Telegraph office, this city, died to-day of yellow fever, after twelve days' illness, aged 50. He leaves a wife and eight children.

Henry Hall, alias Lee, a shot and instantly killed negro, had Sunday morning, died of yellow fever to-day at the Parish Prison. This is the first case of fever at the prison this season.

The death-list includes Edward Gehl, a native of the Isle of Man.

Samuel Moses, a native of Indianapolis and Dr. J. Byrne.

FIREMAN'S APPEAL.

The following explains itself:

To the Five Departments of the Union and all their Kindred Charitable Organizations: The Friends of the Poor, the New Orleans Firemen, for the first time in its half-century of existence, are compelled to make a public appeal for aid. With the exception of the negro slaves and their families, with 270 widows, 3750 women and half orphans, with the inmates of the State Penitentiary, the Attorney-General to-day to visit Northern cities to solicit subscriptions for the sufferers. The Attorney-General gave him a very earnest letter to the public.

A dispatch having been received here from Chicago that nurses accelerated and experienced in yellow-fever were greatly wanted for service, they are many members and their families have yellow fever; that the funds of their Association are exhausted; that they have no money to pay their expenses for the last months, and consequently are greatly in need of assistance. Contributions may be forwarded to F. N. Boylan, Chief of Police.

MEMPHIS.

MORE FAVORABLE WEATHER.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 31.—The weather this morning is bright and warm, but the clouds of smoke over our city show no signs of breaking. Physicians, nurses, visitors, drugists, and undertakers are becoming exhausted by constant working. Dr. Wise, an active young physician, was taken down this morning at the Board of Health office.

At the present fall there are about twenty cases of fever. M. C. Williams, under sentence to the Penitentiary for murder, died last night, and the negro murderer, Brizzell, under sentence of death, is.

IN A DYING CONDITION.

At Camp Joe Williams four or five deaths daily occur.

The hospital contains about twenty-five sick, and the worst is feared for the poor people living in tents. Some have become frightened and returned to their homes in the infected district in the city.

Alex Hunn, of the Masonic Board of Relief, is down, and Joseph Russell, of the Odd Fellows' Relief Board, is very low.

Up to now only seven physicians out of about twenty had made their reports of new cases, the number aggregating forty-two. From this it will be seen that the epidemic is not yet at its height, and that the official reports indicate.

Undertakers report fifty-five yellow fever infections up to noon to-day.

THE OFFICIAL RECORDS.

to-day exhibits 148 new cases for the twenty-four hours ending at 6 p.m., and seventy-seven deaths for the same period.

Ventilators physicians continue to arrive—five from the South, two from the West, Dr. McCormick, from Indiana, and Dr. E. Easly, from Little Rock, arriving to-day. Dr. Easly was accompanied by a corps of thirty nurses.

RECENT CASES.

Among the most recent cases of yellow fever are H. S. Landrum, city editor of the Advertiser, and P. B. Athey, Chief of Police. J. A. Thompson, Postmaster, is also down, but doing well.

Joseph M. M. of the Odd-Fellows' Nurses died and was buried yesterday.

Our drugists are worked down, and there is urgent need of prescription clerks of experience who have had the fever.

Howard Heyman, druggist, died to-day, and J. S. Robinson, one of our principal drugists, closed his establishment to-day and left the city to get rest. J. G. Armstrong, photographer, died of fever to-day at Covington, Tipton County, and two other cases are reported there.

The fever continues to spread among the negroes while families are being proscribed, but it is hoped, with late additions to the medical corps, they will henceforth receive better attention.

In front of commissioners' office of the Clinton Board Committee to-day fully 1,000 negroes assembled all day. The Committee is laboring hard to meet the necessities of all, and good order prevails.

Dr. A. D. Longstaff was elected President.

LATENT.

Among the new cases reported this evening are Fathers Lumenare and Riondon, of St. Patrick's Church. Father Erasmus, O. S. F., is dead.

The attention of the Health-Officer has been called to Whittemore, in which five deaths have occurred. A woman who died at midnight Friday still lies in the house. As another death, before 6 a.m., was reported, the report was not heard for several days. The evening a physician visited the house, broke into the room of the sick man, and found his son and his wife, who had been stricken with the disease, lying dead on the floor. The bed was studded with black vomit. The Sanitary Police have been instructed to break into houses where they have reason to believe there are unattended sick or dead persons.

GRENADA.

SUPPLY NEEDED.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 31.—The following dispatch explains itself:

GRENADA, Miss., Aug. 31.—7 Edward McElroy, Courier-Journal, Louisville, Ky., Please wire us at once in your home town. Agents and published the same at once in your home town. Grenada is without a Relief Committee, and is sending no supplies or money to be sent. We need all supplies and monies sent to be sent. We need more nurses, but we can't afford to pay them. Howard Association, at Grenada. We can't use checks, drafts or Post-Office orders. We need supplies more than we do money.

W. H. BEATTY, M. D.

OTHER SOUTHERN CITIES.

HICKMAN, Ky.

Special Dispatch to the Tribune.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 31.—A report has reached here from Hickman, Ky., to the effect that yellow-fever, called malignant malarial congeutive chills by Dr. Ferris & others, and citizens of that place, has made its appearance. Edward Mangi, Mrs. Whiting, and a son of A. E. Young have died within the past two days, their deaths being remarkable for their suddenness. Fifty persons are now sick there. The train from Hickman was not allowed to stop at Union City on account of the fever.

Jacksonson.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 31.—One death from yellow-fever reported here to-day, causing considerable excitement: Many persons are leaving the city.

Sup. David Flannery, of the Western Union Telegraph Company, has gone to Grenada to receive further communications.

"Three operators there are down with the fever," said Mr. Flannery.

"New Orleans, Aug. 31.—A dispatch to the Howard Association states: 'Twenty new cases have occurred in the last twenty-four hours. Send six colored nurses if possible, and five white nurses.'

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 31.—One death from yellow fever this morning.

CARTOON, Miss.

CHATTAHOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 31.—Dr. J. B. Morris left for Vicksburg this morning, accompanied by fifteen experienced nurses.

The following telegram was received this morning. The nurses leave this afternoon:

For Girson, Aug. 31, 1878.—President of the Howard Association: "Send ten good nurses, we have and five female. There are 350 cases and forty-eight deaths. We are all broken down and in great distress." James A. Gage.

THE JOHN PORTER.

EXPERIENCES ON THAT FEVER-LADEN STEAMER.

Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 31.—Andy Armstrong, late mate of the John Porter, steamship to the steamer, arrived here to-day. He is the only surviving member of the entire crew who remained aboard, and the picture he paints of the terrible fate of the Porter is horrible in the extreme, and recalling in some of its details details the ancient mariner of yore. The men who shipped at Louisville were all taken down before they reached Cincinnati, himself excepted. He says the situation of things was so bad that he stepped ashore to take his ease, and when he got ashore he found all the Northerners gone, so that he may be a quarter over the money sent.

The Treasurer of the Executive Committee made the following report of additional subscriptions:

Employees Morrison, Plummer & Co., Citizens Higham Park, $100.

Keith Bell, carpenter, $100.

Physicians Dr. T. D. Tamm, $100.

Chas. C. Schaw, & Co., M. D. Wells & Co., C. H. Farny & Co.,

POLITICAL.

The History of the Electoral Period Gradually Unfolding.

Tilden's Friends Make Him a Proposition Early in November.

They Suggest to Sammy the Propriety of a New Election.

But the Old Man Was Not Disposed to Assume the Responsibility.

Butler's First Speech to His Constituents in Lowell.

THE ELECTORAL PERIOD.

Special Dispatch to the Tribune.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Referring to the series of political telegrams procured and published by it, the Tribune says:

One by one the tangled threads of the political history of the last Presidential contest, including the bargains and intrigues, attempts to buy up the country, and the various parades after the voting was over, are unraveled for the profit and amusement of the American people. The latest contribution was yesterday in the publication of the following dispatch sent Gov. Tilden from New Orleans just one week after the election:

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 14, 1876.—The Hon. George F. Edmunds, of Vermont. After a full survey of the situation here we are unanimous in our opinion that you make at once to Gov. Hayes the proposition hitherto communicated to you.

SERIAL LETTERS, L. Q. C. LAMAR, THE HON. GEORGE F. EDMUNDS, O. W. ENDERBURY.

What sort of a proposition Mr. Tilden could possibly make to Gov. Hayes just at that time is a question that has puzzled politicians. The result of the election was not then known, although up to that time both sides believed they had won, and each claimed the victory in the most positive manner. Neither Hayes nor Tilden could elect himself, and the only proper thing for either to do was to

SIT STILL AND LISTEN

The few weeks that followed the election of 1876 were more than any other period in the history of the country in its importance for "proposition" of any kind from one of the Presidential candidates to the other.

It turns out that the proposition which these four eminent Democratic statesmen urgently recommended Gov. Tilden to make to Gov. Hayes was really a very important one, not only in itself, but also in its possible effects upon the future of the two great political parties. It was nothing less than a proposal that the Southern Confederates should withdraw or decline to accept the office, and join in requesting Congress to provide for a new election. The proposition was NEVER MADE TO HAYES, probably because no one could do it except Gov. Tilden himself, and he was pretty careful not to let anybody know (just at that time) what course he thought wise to pursue. The plan of the Southern election was more than once discussed during the four months preceding the election of 1868, and advocated by several influential Democrats, chief among whom was Abram S. Howitt, Chairman of Democratic National Committee, but it had not been known before that it was proposed so early in the controversy, or supported by such men as signed the dispatch above. It is news, also, that Gov. Tilden was ever advised to take the initiative in making a new election, and that he was in the secret of his party in 1876, "of course we expected, if a new election was held."

TILDEN WOULD BE EASILY ELECTED, The popular opinion at the time was that he would make his second race an easy one. The plan was discussed, as many others were, but nothing definite was done, and the subject was not pursued on the subject would not listen to any such arrangement, and a majority of the business men in the Democratic party were afraid that to make a new election would be ruinous, so the whole matter was dropped. Our theory is, that no matter which way the question was settled, it would be decided, and the defeated would be discredited, and it would be better to make another trial. So Gov. Tilden never telegraphed to Gov. Hayes, "Let us call this a drawn game, and try it over again; or, beat two in three wins."

BUTLER.

THE GENERAL MAKES HIS FIRST STRECH FOR THE GOVERNORSHIP.

LOWELL, Mass., Aug. 31.—Gen. Butler publicly opened his campaign for the Governorship this evening by addressing his constituents of Lowell. The topic announced was a report of his doings in Congress. An audience numbering fully 4,000 people gathered to hear him, but they soon grew tired, and moderately retarded from the heat, so that he said good night to only about 2,000.

The other bankrupts are Robert H. Atkinson, of Fund Co., in law, in sals and coal, liabilities, $10,000; Frederick S. Stewart, Milwaukee, total liabilities, $6,000; Weeks, Dryer & Co., Cincinnati, $6,000; George G. Lewis, Toledo, Ohio, $10,000; and Palauher D. Farina, Apalachicola, liabilities, $1,000.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 31.—Over 100 petitions in bankruptcy filed to day. The most prominent are those of the principal ones: J. M. Reddy, of Milwaukee, liabilities, $10,000. Among the others are: Wm. T. ILLINOIS, Aug. 31.—Gen. Butler publicly opened his campaign for the Governorship this evening by addressing his constituents of Lowell. The topic announced was a report of his doings in Congress. An audience numbering fully 4,000 people gathered to hear him, but they soon grew tired, and moderately retarded from the heat, so that he said good night to only about 2,000.

The other bankrupts are Robert H. Atkinson, of Fund Co., in law, in sals and coal, liabilities, $10,000; Frederick S. Stewart, Milwaukee, total liabilities, $6,000; Weeks, Dryer & Co., Cincinnati, $6,000; George G. Lewis, Toledo, Ohio, $10,000; and Palauher D. Farina, Apalachicola, liabilities, $1,000.

CONGRESS.

THE THREE CHICAGO DISTRICTS.

The Congressional contest is still the feature of the approaching campaign. As the day of nomination nears, the interest is decidedly increasing. While it is as yet impossible to say with certainty who is to receive the Republican nomination in each of the three districts, yet some of the candidates are plainly favored ahead of their rivals, and others are practically out of the race.

ON THE NORTH SIDE.

The right now seems to be limited to Mr. Aldrich, the present incumbent, and Mr. Kirk Hayes, who announces that he is fairly in for the place, and that he intends to work like a Trojan until the Convention meets.

The Eighteenth Ward Republican Club met at Turner's last evening, A. G. Burley in chair. The attendance was very large.

The first business was to appoint a committee of five to nominate persons from whom should be selected as delegates to the Congressional Convention, to be voted for at the primary election Saturday.

The motion was given to all who wished to join the Club, after which the meeting adjourned until next Saturday night.

The horses were stopped at Monroe, and the team brought back, and the car was taken from the track. The new wheel was put on, and the car again got on the road, but the driver was still in pain.

Mr. George Donald, one of the best German actors in the country, and for several years past leading man and stage manager of Wurster's German Dramatic Company, takes a farewell bow and will appear in his great role of King's Lieutenant in the completed play of the same name, by Kotzebue. He will be joined by the members of Mr. Wurster's new company. Mr. Donald has numerous friends and admirers in this city, and will undoubtedly have a full house.

It was incorrectly stated in THE TRIBUNE a day or so ago that the amount of $60,000 made available for the benefit of the poor in the city was to pay interest on bonds. Thirty-two thousand dollars of it was for that purpose, and $30,000 for the payment of debts. The balance was never collected, and that has to be allowed for. Then, too, there are a number of bonds now due which have not been paid, and the city may be liable for the interest on them.

THE STAGE.

THE DRAMA.

"DIPLOMACY."

The marked success which has attended the production of "Diplomacy" at McVicker's Theatre is matter for sincere congratulations alike to the management, the actors, and the public. It was instantly recognized as a work of rare merit, and the continued enthusiasm over the performance must be accepted as a certificate of good taste and capacity to discern merit between the false and the genuine in dramatic art. The producer of the play in Chicago has been attended with difficulties enough to whitewash a manager's hair. After the disintegration of the component parts of the company consequent upon the death of Montague, it was predicted by the chronic misfortune-mongers that a successful representation could not be had, and all sorts of evil omens were conjured up to witness its production. Yet they were all wrong.

Miss Alice E. Sherwood left for St. Louis last week to join the Louise Pomeroy combination, which opens this week at DeBar's Opera-House in a new play entitled "Adirondacks."

Mr. C. H. Barlow, late leading man of the California Theatre, San Francisco, has been engaged by Management to succeed John McCullough in his production here. That they were all wrong has been proved by the very satisfactory performance of the past week, with but one of the original Montague company remaining in the cast. It should be borne in mind, however, that "Diplomacy" is not a one-man or one-woman play, but one requiring equal excellence in different lines of business in the majority of its exponents, and a company has been formed which thoroughly enters into the spirit of the work, and succeeds in placing before us a striking and vigorous production. That they were all wrong in nearly every part. Extreme poise and high finish appear to have been the characteristics of the original performance in New York, while it was thought to be lacking in those impromptu touches of nature which at once captivate an audience and lead them away from the consciousness of stage deception and artificiality. As given by the present combination there is a freshness and spontaneity which makes amends for perfect finish and enhances the interest in the play. The ripest, purest, and strongest drama that has yet emanated from Scotland's fertile brain.

As a piece of dramatic mechanism, "Diplomacy" is as near perfection as we can hope for in this period of theatrical patchwork. Few or none of the incidents and situations can be called creations, yet they are so happily married and so admirably introduced as to have all the crispness and interest of originality. Every little point seems to have its bearings upon the progress of the action, and its development, and intensifies the document.

From the first to the last the audience is kept on the qui vive, and it has been a notable, because very unusual, incident that hardly a spectator has yet been seen to leave until the fall of the curtain, so engrossed have we been led on by the interest in the culmination of events. This is Mr. Spackman's masterpiece, and we heartily commend him to the critics.

Mr. J. R. Spackman, whose name will be familiar to many old theatre-goers in Chicago, has arrived here from Toronto to join the John Murphy combination now being formed. This is Mr. Murphy's third season at the city, and he is in the playhouse again, as well as Paul and John Barney Macaulay's combination on Monday next.

Miss Helen Tracy, who played Belle in "Belle" with John T. Raymond for the nights, on account of the non-arrival of Miss Anna Chambers, left for St. Louis last week to join the Louise Pomeroy combination, her engagement to Dr. Spalding, the Olympia, which opens for the season to-morrow evening.

The writing of extravaganza is becoming addressed to the dramatic editor of The Times asking him to whether the audience will be interested in a new musical comedy. It is purely a matter of personal concern, it has been confided to the editor of "The Home" Department, who will report to the anxious inquirers.

The Majorettes have organized a fresh combination, and are to open in the New Haven Opera-House to-morrow evening with Grindell as clown, Anveri as Pantaloon, Ennace as Harlequin, and Aldo Boshelli as Columbine. A large company of girls, mostly from Connecticut, will be on hand, and a handsome series of a Titan, a Dancer, a Girl Scout, a Girl Guide, and a Girl Scout, typical of a peculiar phase of life, that no modicum of proneness is given to one another. We sympathize with the tempest-tossed Jullan, and feel that the author has done well in making curiously alive to the political intrigues of Baron Steen, and enter fully into the unhappy fate of Offy. Even the jaded Zucks, who is a self-satisfied turnip-top, is made to realize for a share of our pity at the end—and this we regard as a masterpiece of dramatic ingenuity.

While we have no objection to what is represented in the present cast, it is rather that the critic has the pleasurable task of recording so much commendation, or registering so little blame, that we are compelled to make a comment.

CHICAGO SOCIETY.

The quiet little town of Batavia was the scene of a fashionable wedding Thursday evening, the contracting parties being Miss Emma Sperry, daughter of D. R. Sperry, Esq., and Mr. Will S. Derby, of the Land Department of the Northwestern Railroad. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's parents in North Avenue, just off Madison street. Many relatives and most intimate friends of the bride and groom. The bride was attired in a lovely toilette of delicate canopee pink silk, elaborately trimmed with white Swiss and Valenciennes lace, the throat and sleeves being finished with duchesse lace, natural flowers ornaments. The presents were numerous and handsome. After congratulations and a sumptuous wedding supper, Mr. and Mrs. Derby left for St. Paul, Minn., and upon their return will reside at Batavia.

They left Chicago Tuesday night, the 30th, at 9 o'clock, and were at Fort Howard in time for breakfast the next morning. From there they started for Menominee, and the route is graphically described by the correspondent as follows, with slight changes to avoid a too close identification of the writer:

"On the road we passed through Peshtigo, and saw the new town and the ruins of the old one. Our fire was bad, so we made our way worse, for the poor creatures had no chance for their lives. We went through miles and miles of forests, with entirely of bark, limbs, and leaves by the fire. I could think of nothing but the 'Ghost of the Forest.' In these woods there is a growth of trees, and took the young lady by surprise, after which we stopped at a hotel to lodge half on Lake street, and spend the evening.

Mrs. Charles A. Phelps and her pupils gave a charming soiree musical Tuesday evening at her parsonage, 100 W. Adams street. Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Whittle was requested; also from Mr. and Mrs. S. L. They left Chicago Tuesday night, the 30th, at 9 o'clock, and were at Fort Howard in time for breakfast the next morning. From there they started for Menominee, and the route is graphically described by the correspondent as follows, with slight changes to avoid a too close identification of the writer:

"On the road we passed through Peshtigo, and saw the new town and the ruins of the old one. Our fire was bad, so we made our way worse, for the poor creatures had no chance for their lives. We went through miles and miles of forests, with entirely of bark, limbs, and leaves by

SAN FRANCISCO.

Henry Ward Beecher Takes the City by Storm.

Five Thousand People Crowd the Temple to Hear Him.

The Great Preacher and the Photograph Fiend.

Mr. Beecher "Takes In" Chinatown and All Its Curiosities.

What He Saw in Their Dwellings, Joss-House, and Theatre.

He Winds Up the Night with a Cup of Tea at the Restaurant.

HENRY WARD BEECHER.

Special Correspondence of The Tribune.
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—Henry Ward Beecher is the lion of the hour. He has come, as lectured, has conquered. It was a easy victory, for there was no prejudice against him. But there was a feeling of east jocularity—not exactly the sentiment, perhaps, with which to regard a great man.

He has quite dissipated that feeling, and the town is, metaphorically, at his feet.

He lectures at the Chinese Temple, a building near twenty-four hundred people, but an extra hundred or two have crowded in and disposed themselves against the walls and through the aisles.

He delivers four lectures in San Francisco, and flies about the country between lectures in the small towns.

What between flying about the country in these intervals, and flying about the city sightseeing, the active Beecher is pretty busy.

The reporter photographs him perfectly, finds the perfect studio of him.

One of these lodgings-houses is the fac-simile of another. One is as full as another, one as another, and there are hundreds of them.

THE JOSSE-HOUSE.

We go from the lodging-house to the joss-house. It is approached through a narrow, dark alley leading off Dupont street, the artery of Chinatown.

As we walk we observe streams of light coming through the chinks of the sidewalk, and the policemen inform us that we are walking over hundreds of Chinamen.

But there is total and complete darkness until we turn suddenly to one side, and are confronted by a staircase as steep as the sides of Mount Blanc.

It is unpainted and shaky as well as steep, so we clasp desperately to the baluster, unwarmed by millions of protruding splinters.

A blind-looking door and a small ladder attached to an opposite wall lead to a gambling-house in the times when gambling throve, although forbidden by law.

We prosecute their wickedness very close to it.

There is a joss-hall of the divinity which doth joss a King.

The gods are all enthroned after the manner of the latter house. In the same way, but more elegantly and more aristocratic-looking than their cool devotees.

Some were half stupid, and roused themselves with some faint interest as we came past.

Only one was wide awake. He was just com-ming out of his smoke, but his glassy eye beseeched us.

He leaned on his elbow twisted up as unconsciously as they all are. We did not see one of them who had a smile.

It was a smile of contempt, but it was escape from the depths of Chinatown.

He has his face cleaned off the dust of travel.

The unusual and most remarkable man who now need moodily in and down the deck of the fiery-boat, chewing their mustaches to fragments, and studying up a plan of attack for the next day.

Mr. Beecher arrived at noon, and by 7 o'clock in the evening the vestibule of the Metropolitan was crowded with a company of large photographs of him taken that afternoon by the two largest rival houses.

The photographing of celebrities is carried on in this goodly city to an extent which is absolutely unique.

At one time this department of the business was carried on exclusively by one house,—Bradley & Bowditch.

But there was such a successful speculation of selling the pictures at 50 cents apiece that many of the others took up the business.

The result is that there is a pretty actress comes to town who has her picture taken in all the galleries, and according to the various fancies of all the rival artists.

Then there is the joss-hall at the theatre, we see pictures of her in every shop-window, side view, full view, back view, vignettes, quarter length, full length, even busts, and in every window, every shop-store, even general's uniform, and every corner of the house.
